DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beattie et al. (2002/0029951 A1).

Beattie et al. shows the claimed device where a shift lever (34, figure 5) has a plunger (78) which extends to a pin (42) which moves up and down to lock the shift lever in a plurality of positions, the pin being spring (78') biased upwardly to engage detents (see figure 4, end of the lead line for (41)), the pin reciprocates vertically to engage detents (41); the pin therefore resides in a vertical hole or slit to accommodate the movement of the pin. The detents (41) are stationary and the movement of the plunger (78) pushes the pin down to allow the shifter to move and then upon release of the plunger the pin is spring biased up into the detents.

Response to Arguments

Art Unit: 3682

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6/18/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues

"Beattie does not disclose a lever assembly "wherein the lever body has a slit cut from a lower end of the lever body to a height position in an axial direction of the lever body wherein the rod 'is mounted with a lock-pin extending in a transverse direction of the lever body, wherein the lock-pin protrudes outwardly through the slit", as claimed in Claim 1. Beattie does not disclose or suggest that the "level body 50 includes a slit 55 formed from the proximal end of large-diameter portion 50b to a predetermined height position." [page 14:3-4; Fig. 8]."

This is not found persuasive because the pin of Beattie does in fact reciprocate vertically in a slot. In order for the device of Beattie to operate the pin must reciprocate vertically as seen in the "up – down" arrow of figure 5. The pin moves vertically and engages detents; the pin being spring biased in these detents.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

5. The following are suggested formats for either a Certificate of Mailing or Certificate of Transmission under 37 CFR 1.8(a).
